Curriculum Development

1. Diversity, Equity and Inclusion Minors (2020-2021)

As a member of the inaugural Dean's Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Fellows Pilot Program, I worked in collaboration with the fellows and the Associate Dean of Diversity, Equity and Inclusion to create two Diversity, Equity and Inclusion Minors for the College of Social Science. The minors included a domestic and an international track. The team reviewed all related courses across campus and constructed a list from which students could select three electives, and also created three new required courses to frame the minors: a single introductory course and an exit course for each track.

2. Conservation Criminology Certificate Program (2008-2010)

I spearheaded the development of the Conservation Criminology certificate program, which is based on a conceptual framework that integrates criminology and criminal justice, natural resource disciplines and risk and decision sciences to improve understanding and practice related to environmental crime and risk. To the best of our knowledge, Conservation Criminology was the only certificate program of its kind.

3. Environmental Crime and Natural Resource Sustainability Conference (2007)

I organized the MSU Environmental Crime and Natural Resources Sustainability Conference to disseminate research with and solicit feedback on Conservation Criminology from academic colleagues and representatives of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, Michigan Department of Environmental Quality, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Federal Law Enforcement Training Center, INTERPOL and the World Bank.
